

LITTLE BIT

on most anything

If we don't watch it, President Nixon won't have a corner on the credibility gap. The city of Seaside has waged stellar battles against the powerful utilities of the state in recent months, objecting that the rate increase upon rate increase in electricity, gas, water, then maybe electricity again and probably telephones cause unwarranted burdens on our citizenry. 'Where will it all end?' our city wonders of the Public Utilities Commission.

A noble fight, we agree. But then along comes the old friendly garbage man.

And we really mean it. Lee Martelli is about as friendly a human being you'd ever want to meet.

Well, Martelli's five-year refuse collection contract with the city expired on April 1. Six months ago he was notified the city of that fact, and also noted that he wouldn't continue the contract at the same rate, basically $1.75 a month for the pickup of four trash cans at curbside in the residential area.

As Martelli put it to the city fathers, he's been losing money on Seaside -- more than $10,000 last year alone. And while this wasn't anything new, he said, his men had negotiated a new contract and their day's pay would increase about $3 a day to nearly $34 come April 1. Martelli allowed as how he really didn't want to lose any more than $10,000, so he asked for a basic residential increase of $2.25 a month to $2.00. The city fathers said they'd negotiate.

The deadline came and went, and the city asked Martelli for an extension. They during the month last month, they said they had reached an agreement with Martelli, but that it would have to go out for bid.

Basically, the city worked it out with Martelli that $2.25 wasn't really enough to cover everything, especially over five years, so they agreed on a $4.00 increase -- to $2.15 -- and a review at the end of two-and-a-half years. They also showed him how he could reduce his bad debt losses and therefore increase his revenue by more diligently billing every single land owner in the city, as the ordinance intended. (Martelli has been plagued for years with absentee landlords and/or tenants who refused to pay for garbage collection.)

Anyway, the bids were opened last week and Martelli was the only bidder, and so when the council met Thursday night, he got the contract.

Now don't get us wrong, although we aren't particularly happy about a $5.00 annual increase in our garbage bill, Martelli and his men deserve that much for all the garbage we give them. And we figure

Oath takers

A "HAPPY, humble and grateful" Pearl Carey took the oath of office along with Jerry McGrath from City Manager Milt Farrell last Thursday night as City Atty. Saul Weingarten looks on. In an opening speech Mrs. Carey told a full council chambers that Seaside never has had more "togetherness." She said she would devote her service on the council to attacking the "political powerlessness of poor people," and vowed to follow through her campaign promises of industry on Laguna Grande, a library east of Fremont, a full-time city attorney and a city manager living in the city. None is the case now, nor planned that way. McGrath, noting that he had been a "long time reaching this position," emphasized he was bringing a different point of view to the council. He clashed with Mayor Lou Haddad early in the meeting, but noted later that the two could agree, also. The new council spent nearly four hours in its first session, and also held a closed personnel session.

Group named to campaign for sewer bonds

Newly elected councilman, Mrs. Pearl Carey, and John Stamm, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, conducted their first steering committee meeting Monday to mount a drive to pass a sewer bond issue June 2.

The committee, named by Mayor Lou Haddad, to push for passage of the $800,000 measure, made necessary by a cease and desist order by the Central Coastal Regional Water Quality Control Board, has 14 members, will name more.

Other members are Hal Winner, Calvin Reaves, James Clark, Sam Brown, Bessie Sims, Linda Bassett, Al Lockwood, James Adams, Lloyd Mayland, Lucas Faller, Glenn Olea and Vaughan Ausman. Ausman is from Del Rey Oaks.

The water board lifted the cease and desist order Monday, but Haddad said the treat of it still exists. The Seaside County Sanitation District had been subject to a daily fine of up to $6,000 before a temporary injunction was granted last month.

Haddad and other city officials contend that the suggested regional plan of the water board would cost the city nearly three times as much for better sewage treatment than the $1.1 million plan envisaged in the bond issue request. He said, however, that the bond issue funds could be used for a regional plant if a plan acceptable to the district were found before the funds were used to elevate the local treatment plant from primary to secondary treatment. The $300,000 difference between the bond issue call and the total cost of the conversion would be funded by the federal government.

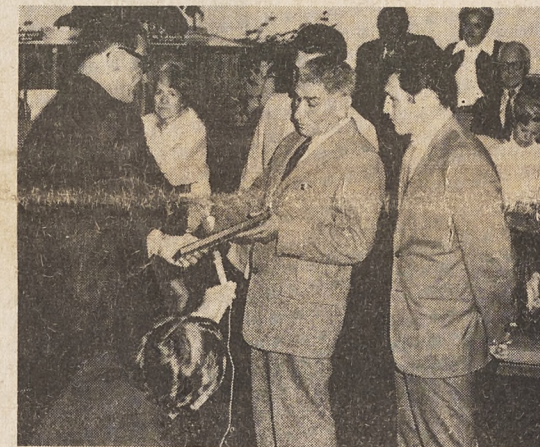

Citizen & Mom

SEASIDE paid tribute to a real Mother of the Year last week when Mrs. Evelyn Wilcox was named Citizen of the Month for May. Not only has Mrs. Wilcox reared nine of her own children and three foster children, but she has also been a real "Mom" to hundreds of young Seaside baseball players for more than a dozen years. Virtually a life-long resident of Seaside, Mrs. Wilcox was the mainstay for the fund-raising snack bars for Baby Ruth, Connie Mack and Junior Legion baseball leagues throughout the years. As Mayor Lou Haddad put it, she has spent more hours on that one activity than a host of other Seaside "Citizens" have spent on many endeavors for the city. Gravely ill and hospitalized, Mrs. Wilcox was unable to receive her award last Thursday night. It was accepted here from Haddad in her behalf by her husband, Chester, and two sons, Chester Jr. and Paul. "We are deeply grateful," the mayor said.

Crafts workshop

A crafts workshop with instruction in knitting, crocheting, stitching, painting and other handicrafts, is being started at the Seaside Adult Recreation Center at 972 Hilby Avenue on Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. under auspices of the Del Monte Villa Senior Center.

The class is open to all seniors in the Seaside community.

Block, Darla Duncan, Josephine Evans, Pam Murray and sponsors Jeannette Pendergrass and Darlene Duncan.

M is for Missionettes

A small group of Seaside girls has again put some real meaning into Faith and Charity and Goodness.

Last Saturday and Sunday for Mother's Day, the Missionettes of the Seaside Assembly of God Church played daughters to 300 mothers all over the Peninsula, and this grateful looks and expressions of thanks the girls received managed to melt even the most shy young lady into a happy smile.

The girls, under the guidance of Mrs. Jeannette Pendergrass and Mrs. Darlene Duncan, held a car wash earlier this spring to raise funds. With the money they bought 300 flowers and ribbon and spent hours making them into colorful corsages. They drew and hand-lettered cards to go with each corsage.

Then last weekend the girls and their sponsors delivered their gifts to the Seaside Home (shown in the accompanying photos) on Frances Street in Seaside and other nursing homes and hospitals in Monterey and Pacific Grove.

These same Missionettes last year financed all by their own salesmanship a trip to see the State Assembly in action in Sacramento. And next up is Father's Day, when they'll do more of the same for Peninsula dads.

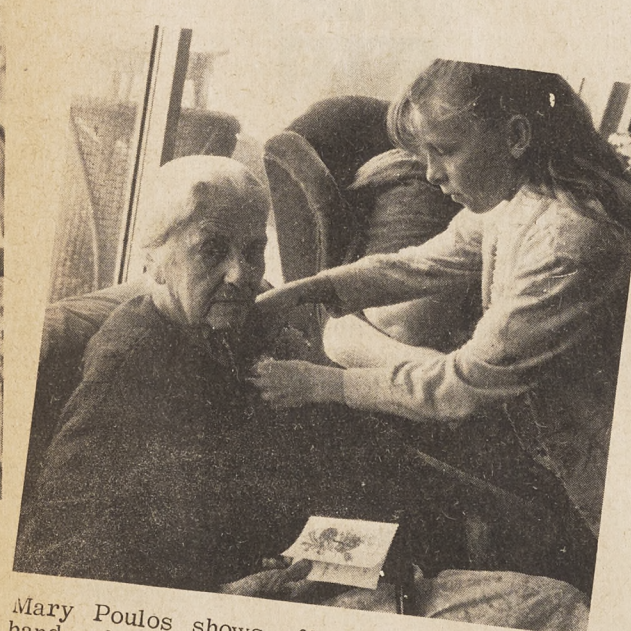

Mrs. Gladys Matthews, director of Seaside Home, smiles to a Mother's Day wish from Karen Williams.

Mrs. Eva Stevens, at 96 the oldest senior at Seaside Home, gets a corsage from Pam Murray.

Josephine Evans pins a flower on Callie Horn.

Mary Poulos shows off one of the girls' handmade cards as Rhonda Sperling does the honors.

Married

DONNA LEE PONCE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben N. Ponce of Del Rey Oaks, became the bride of James David Lasiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Dean Lasiter of Monterey, May 2 at St. Francis Xavier Church in Seaside. Fr. Joe Watt officiated. Mrs. Terry Kaiser of Los Banos was matron of honor for the bride who wore a gown of silk organza and beau d'ange lace. The brides attendants were Miss Sandra Ponce and Miss Patti Atkins of Del Rey Oaks,

Mrs. Dennis Gill of Seaside, and Mrs. Edward Garcia of Pacific Grove. Terry Kaiser of Los Banos was best man while ushers were Budd Gilpin and Les Compagna and John McFarland of Carmel and John LaSalla of Monterey. Flower girl was Penny Sexton of Pacific Grove and Ring bearer was Scottie Nichols of Del Rey Oaks. The couple, both 1969 graduates of Monterey High School, will live in Seaside. John Perkins Photo

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I know that I am eligible for Medicare when I turn 65 even though I may continue working. However, since I am covered by a group health insurance program at work, do I really need Medicare?

A. Whether to sign up for Medicare is your personal decision. Many group health plans automatically transfer senior workers to a special plan which supplements the benefits under Medicare Parts A and B. Check with your personnel officer or union representative to find out if yours is such a plan before you make your decision.

Q. What if I don't have my Medicare card with me when I need to enter a hospital?

A. Don't let it happen. Keep that card with you at all times. The hospital can manage, but you will find that it is much more convenient both to you and the hospital if you have your card with you.

Q. My sister was 65 in 1966 and she signed up for hospital insurance under Medicare and has received her Medicare card. She never worked under Social Security and was never married. My situation is the same as hers. Will I be eligible for the hospital insurance benefits when I reach 65 in November of this year?

A. Starting with 1968, persons will need some coverage under Social Security to be eligible for hospital insurance benefits. Since you will be 65 this year, you will need 1 1/2 years work under Social Security to be eligible for the hospital insurance benefits.

Q. Why do I have to furnish you with my new married name if I continue working under my maiden name?

A. From our experience, employers often report their employees under their married names when they send in their Social Security reports. If we do not have the married name on our records, this will lead to extra correspondence and costs to the government. Individuals name and number must agree with our records before we can credit the wages on that person's Social Security account.

Q. Why is it so important to have one Social Security number all the time?

A. Your earnings under Social Security are kept on an individual record for you under your Social Security number. If you work under more than one number, then it is possible for your wages to be separated among several records. This could lead to difficulties and loss of full benefits to you and your family at the time a claim is made for benefits.

Q. I am over retirement age. Why should I continue to pay the Social Security tax?

A. Continued tax receipts from employed persons after retirement age help keep the tax rate down. You must also not overlook the fact that paying taxes for working after retirement age may result in an increase in your benefit rate.

Set trail ride

A two-day trail ride, co-sponsored by the Old Monterey Bicentennial, Inc., will be held May 23 and 24 from the beach in Monterey to the beach in Carmel via the Jacks Peak and Hidden Hills area.

It will be the first two-day ride for the Monterey Peninsula Outriders Horsemen's Association and is open to riders of all ages.

The ride will cover historic ground, starting at the site of the Portola landing near the Monterey Holiday Inn and winding through pine and oak-covered hills, which once resounded to the shouts of the vaqueros who worked the ranchos around old Monterey.

Camp will be made in the rear of Hidden Hills and horsemen are advised to bring bed rolls, halters, lead ropes and water buckets, besides personal effects. There will be transportation provided for duffel.

For information contact the Old Monterey Bicentennial office in Monterey, 539 Hartnell St.

Army food services openings

The United States Army is presently seeking young men who desire jobs as cook, meat cutters, bakers and food service supervisors. Persons who enlist for this option receive extensive training with the latest food preparation equipment.

The basic cooking course is taught at several locations throughout the United States, but for advanced training, enlistees attend the Army's Quartermaster School at Fort Lee, Virginia. After eight weeks of basic training in the specific division, the enlistee can go on for advanced training in such areas as hospital food service or as a food supervisor.

More information on a career in food service and some 300 other job training opportunities can be obtained from Sergeant Jose Garcia at 431 Webster St. in Monterey, 372-4742.

TIPS FOR GARDENERS—BE READY FOR SPRING

Warmer weather can take you unaware, sometimes. Just creeps up on you and there you are with rusty outdoor equipment and tools that you meant to get around to—but haven't had time for. All is not lost. In addition to the regular oils and lubricators that you wipe on with a rag, there are new ones that you spray on.

Lawnmowers: Spray with penetrating oil. This oil penetrates rust, softens and loosens it so that steel wool takes it off easily. Now, lubricate all the moving parts with household oil spray and wipe the rust away with steel wool. Finally, spray the cutting edges with the no-oil lubricant. It keeps grass from sticking.

Tools: You can de-rust with a rag soaked in penetrating oil, or you can spray the tools with the new penetrating oil spray. If you spray them with no-oil lubricant afterwards, they're easier to use.

Pruners and shears: Same treatment. May as well do it the easy way with the spray products. You'll find your cutting back, pruning and shearing much easier.

Spreaders: De-rust, lubricate and then be sure to spray the parts that do the actual work with Dry-Lube. You keep material from sticking to working parts and cut down energy expended by both the machine and you.

To speak

John Barton, professor at the Stanford School of Law will speak on the constitutional implications of the foreign policy in Southeast Asia, tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Membership drive

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art will hold a membership meeting May 20. The session will be held at the museum on Pacific St., in Monterey, and members are invited to bring guests who may be prospective members. The event starts at 6 p.m.

View Of Spring Fashion

The travel wardrobe of 1970 Maid of Cotton Gayle Thornton capsules the latest and greatest in the world of fashion. And a quick preview shows the most potent fashion message is telegraphed in prints.

On her six months' international tour, the Maid travels with a 'round-the-clock wardrobe of high fashion cottons. It includes pantsuits, coats, afternoon dresses, cocktail ensembles, and formal evening gowns.

Outfits are gently shaped and feminine, with skirts that are A-shaped, gathered, or swinging with inverted pleats. Belts, placed high or slightly above the waistline, accent almost every style.

While silhouettes are soft, fluid, and uncluttered, the fabrics are sharply defined in eye-catching prints that come in all colors of the rainbow . . . in true only-in-cotton hues.

Stripes, florals, polka dots, patchwork, abstracts, and geometrics add extra dimension to the Maid's wardrobe of cotton knits, broads, jacquards, ottomans, piques, and double wovens.

One smart ensemble in the 30's mood is a skimmer dress and tunic coat. It's in soft cotton jersey printed with big pen-and-ink oriental flowers. Another newsmaking costume is a high-belted jacket and dress in a three-dimensional raschel cotton knit. The fabric features a bold red and white geometric design.

In the color palette, the wardrobe features shades of French blue, apricot, palest yellow, primary red, and pastel pink. Brown and white is a popular combination for daytime as well as evening.

TRAVEL-MINDED—A news-making cotton raschel knit in a bold red and white tile design is modeled by Maid of Cotton Gayle Thornton. The easy-going jacket dress by Barbarella is perfect for her trip to Europe aboard Pan American's new 747 jumbo jet this summer.

FLORAL FANTASY—A romantic look for evening is captured in this orange and white gown of sculptured cotton, worn by 1970 Maid of Cotton Gayle Thornton. A deep inverted pleat shapes the skirt, and white chalk beading enhances the U-neck and fitted bodice. By Morton Myles of Malcolm Charles.

CALIFORNIA RIB ROAST

To reach optimum standards in the highest English tradition, every homemaker can produce perfect roasts every time by using an accurate meat thermometer. If she does not have one, she'll wisely shake her pennybank and purchase one to insure roast beef at the peak of perfection every time.

Select a 4 to 8 pound standing rib roast. Rub salt, pepper, garlic (optional) and any selected herb, such as ground rosemary or marjoram, into all surfaces. Place roast in open roaster, fat side up. Carefully insert meat thermometer into center or thickest muscle, being careful to avoid fat and bone. Roast, uncovered, without water or searing, in oven preheated to 325° F. to desired doneness. Roast meat to 130° F. for very rare beef; 140° F. for rare; 160° F. for medium and 170° F. for well-done. Allow some leeway, if desired, for internal temperatures rising a few degrees after removal from oven.

The approximate roasting time in hours can be determined by this chart:

Weight	Rare	Medium	Well-done
4 lbs.	1 1/4	2 1/4	3
6 lbs.	3 1/4	3 3/4	4 1/4
8 lbs.	3 1/2	4 1/2	5

Place roast with larger cut-side down on serving dish; garnish as desired. Carve roast by cutting across grain toward ribs.

Christian Science

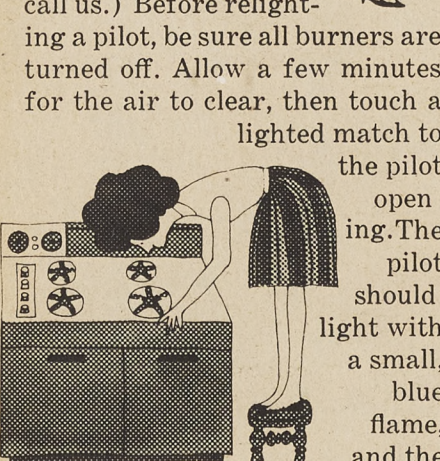

An understanding of man's immortality was the basis of Christ Jesus' healing ministry and is effective in meeting human problems today, according to the Christian Science Lesson—Sermon on "Immortals and Immortals" to be read this Sunday.

The public is invited to attend services beginning at 11 a.m. at Christian Science churches on the Monterey Peninsula. The Christian Science Board of Directors has announced the election of Carl J. Welz of San Francisco as editor of The Christian Science Journal, the Christian Science Sentinel, and The Herald of Christian Science. The new appointment will take effect on June 8.

More Helpful Tips from PG&E:

Even the most faithful pilot light can go out. So check your pilot first if one of your gas appliances or furnace isn't operating.

Most gas ranges have more than one pilot. If you're not sure where they're located, consult your owner's manual. (If you need help, call us.) Before relighting a pilot, be sure all burners are turned off. Allow a few minutes for the air to clear, then touch a lighted match to the pilot opening. The pilot should light with a small, blue flame, and the burner should light when you turn it on. If the burner fails to light, call us. We'll send a man out to check it.

Modern gas water heaters and dryers shut off completely if the pilot goes out. And most models bear manufacturer instructions for relighting. If you can't get the appliance operating, call us or the installer.

If the pilot of any gas heater or furnace goes out, TURN OFF THE MAIN BURNER VALVE FIRST. Allow ten or fifteen minutes for any accumulation of gas to clear before relighting pilot (following the instructions on the equipment). With the pilot relighted, the furnace or heater should operate. If it won't, call us.

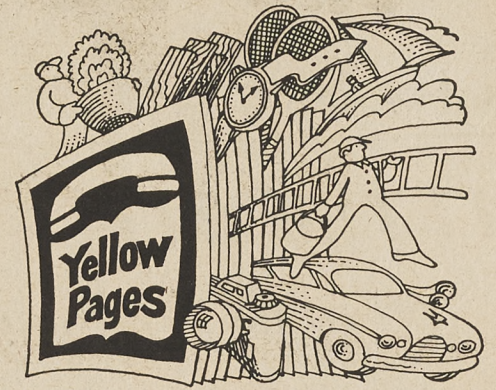

PILOTS NEEDN'T GO ON VACATION. Some folks prefer to shut off furnaces and water heaters during the summer or vacations. However, it's more convenient to turn off the main burner, but not the pilot. When the pilot is lighted, your furnace is ready to work on a cold day. Most hot water heaters can be turned to "PILOT" when not in use. This keeps the pilot lighted and prevents the main burner from heating water.

WARNING: Never look for a gas leak with a lighted match or candle. If you suspect a gas leak, call PG&E right away and we'll check it.

If you call for a PG&E service man to check out a gas leak or an appliance, have him show you where your pilots are, and how to relight them. If an appliance needs repairs or parts, an appliance man, plumber, or furnace man should be called. P.S. The average daily cost of gas and electricity to run a typical household year 'round is less than a couple of packs of cigarettes. PG and E

THE PHONE BOOTH

Ever since Benjamin Franklin began publishing his almanac in 1732, guidebooks in one form or another have been popular in America. Today there are manuals and directories for almost anything you want to do. Probably the best known guidebook though is the Yellow Pages of your telephone book. And why not? It's just about the most complete listing of nearly every kind of product and service available in your area. So whatever you're trying to find, just remember there's nowhere you can find help faster than in the Yellow Pages.

To focus attention on the fight against deafness, May has been declared "Hearing and Speech Month." The Bell System has special equipment and services to help people who have difficulty using the telephone, and may be able to help someone you know. Call your Telephone Business Office for more information.

The Question Box

Q What are the deadline dates for changes in telephone listings for the 1970 Monterey Directory?

A The advertising Yellow Pages deadline is May 21, 1970. Alphabetical White Page changes must be completed the week of June 12, 1970.

CONSUMER POWER

By YVONNE EARNST

Quite deliberately, we have steered clear of the subject of "cents off" or "cash-off" coupons until the subject of refunding was thoroughly reviewed. Unfortunately, the two subjects are often confused. The only similarity between the two is that they are both used to tempt consumers to buy products.

With cash-off coupons, a refund of a few cents is given to the consumer at the time of payment for the product. With refunds, a box-top or label is sent to a specified address for a refund that is more sizeable, perhaps the entire amount of the purchase price.

The total savings from using cash-off coupons is usually less than that obtained from refunding, but the thrifty consumer does well to take advantage of both advertising offers.

Coupons for cents-off deals appear in magazines, newspapers and are mailed to "occupant" addresses. They are also often included as a bonus when a company sends you a requested refund.

There was a time when I tossed away all the coupons for products in which I was not interested. Since becoming active in refunding circles, though, I save them all. When I collect a small stack, they are sent off to refunders who are interested in trading them. In return, they send me cash-off coupons for products which I am interested in buying. This simple trading at least doubles my coupon savings.

What do you do with all those coupons after you've snipped them from magazines and newspapers? Why, you organize them, of course -- or you have a jumble of useless scrap paper on your hands.

A sturdy letter-size manila envelope that fits into your handbag is an ideal coupon organizer. And, before you put a single coupon in it, put your name, address and phone number on the front of it.

The most heartbreaking thing that can happen to a coupon collector happened to me last year about this time. Having taken the coupons I wished to use from my envelope, I laid it on the check-out counter of a busy supermarket while taking out the money to pay the cashier. Then, I walked out of the store, forgetting to pick up my coupon envelope. Twenty minutes later, when I realized that I had forgotten it and went back, it was gone.

Someone might have at least returned those they didn't care to use. Even that would have been something. The coupons in that envelope included several large ones obtained through refunding, and they were probably worth at least $10.

So, emblazon this message on your coupon envelope, "Please take your reward--then please send me the leftovers."

Nothing can be more useless than coupons left at home when you are out shopping, so take the time to arrange your coupons in alphabetical order in a sturdy envelope.

About once a month, go through them quickly to weed out those that are about to expire (most have expiration dates, and it isn't fair to try to sneak them in with the good ones, and do check the expiration dates, but help them out by not giving them any old ones.

If you are using several cash-off coupons, it is also helpful to a cashier if you arrange them in numerical order -- all the 5¢ coupons together, the 7¢ together, etc. And be sure that you have actually purchased the product to fulfill your end of the bargain. Sometimes, a store will allow you to buy a king-size rather than the regular size specified on the coupon, but to ask a store to cash coupons for products you have not purchased is highly unfair.

It has been a common practice in the past, but many companies have conducted investigations and you are putting your store management in jeopardy of prosecution when you hand them coupons for items you have not purchased.

You should respect the rules, and so should the store where you are doing business. If a cashier refuses to take an unexpired coupon from you for any reason, finish checking out, and take your complaint to the manager. If he is not in at the moment, save your grocery tape, and your coupon and the cashier's name -- and tell him about it the next time you are in the store.

It is your right as a consumer to use these coupons. Many store managers feel that the small handling charge allowed by the manufacturer does not really pay for the cost of handling them. But any store manager who has his customers' welfare uppermost in his mind (our kind of man) is going to be fair, and accept them. And, we, too, should be fair.

Noted physician, ecologist speaks

Allen C. Nadler, Salinas physician, today returned from a one week speaking tour in relation to recent Earth Day activities. He represented the Scientists' Institute for Public Information which has its west coast office at Monterey Peninsula College.

Speaking before an Earth Day audience on April 22 at Cabrillo College in Santa Cruz he suggested that large consumers of national resources such as PG&E at Moss Landing should perhaps be taxed in accordance with the amount of fuel such as air that they consume and that local citizenry be given a role in determining whether or not they are willing to pay the environmental cost of providing electricity hundreds and thousands of miles away.

Later that same day in an address at the University of California at Riverside he proposed that the largest single contributor to further intensification of the environmental crisis in Los Angeles Basin would come about from the diversion of water from northern to southern California, allowing for increased real estate development, population saturation, and the attendant traffic and fuel consumption in an area that is already starved for air.

On April 24 and 25 Dr. Nadler was at San Diego State College where he suggested that if further destruction of the global environment is to be avoided, an increased public awareness of the threat is necessary, and one way this can be developed more rapidly is for scientists to open the doors of the universities to the public as well as by going out to the communities to educate.

Earlier in the week Dr. Nadler was the keynote speaker with Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas at Texas State University. Dr. Nadler pointed out that the ongoing death of Galveston Bay is due to lack of ecological foresight by engineers who planned the 1914 Houston ship channel, and future engineering projects must receive attention not only from the Army Corps of Engineers or engineering firms, but also must be dealt with by multidisciplinary task forces including life scientists to avoid future ecological disasters.

Med-Cal pharmacy fees cut

The State Department of Health Care Services recently ordered a 10 per cent cut in pharmacy fees for two months to avoid cutting off medicines to nearly two million Medi-Cal patients.

Dr. Earl W. Brian said the May 8 to July 1 reduction is necessary to balance the program's medicines budget as required by law. The professional fees that Medi-Cal pays at some 4,000 pharmacies will drop from $2.30 to $2.07 for each prescription for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Dr. Brian emphasized that the cut "should not have any effect on Medi-Cal patients."

"By law, when we find that any of our program categories will exceed its budget by more than 10 per cent, it must be reduced -- if possible -- without cutting patient services," he said.

Medi-Cal prescriptions, budgeted this fiscal year for $57.4 million, are projected to go over the 10 per cent variation by $1,000,000 (m) to $64 million unless checked.

The pharmaceutical fee cut was ordered "only after all possibilities were explored. The decision was discussed with the California Pharmaceutical Association," the director said.

The 23 per cent cut in the standard fee represents 10 per cent of a flat rate established in 1968 for all Medi-Cal prescriptions which average about 1,500,000 (m) monthly.

Volunteers in local schools

The public schools of Monterey, Seaside, Fort Ord, and Marina are fortunate in having many interested students, parents and other adults in the community volunteer their time to help pupils and teachers. Moe individual instruction and learning in-depth can occur because of this volunteer help.

Colton Junior High School, Monterey, has seven student tutors enrolled in tutoring as an elective course. They work individually with an assigned student referred by a teacher. Progress has been good. Two paid high school students formerly assisted in tutoring, but this program was eliminated in recent budget cuts.

Fitch Junior High School, Fort Ord, has a different program with 11 volunteer junior high school girls who attend regular classes mornings and in the afternoon assist teachers at some of the elementary schools on-post Fort Ord. Student volunteers must maintain a "C" average, have no "D" grades, and must be regular in attendance. The program is supervised by the ninth grade counselor, Mrs. Roberta Wakefield. Students may assist teachers in correction of papers, preparation of bulletin boards, spelling or mathematics tutoring, or playground activities at Marshall or Patton elementary schools or at the Gladys Stone School for mentally retarded children, operated by the Monterey County Office of Education, on-post Fort Ord.

At Covell School, Seaside, 14 parents and high school students volunteer their time and talent in helping elementary pupils. They read stories to small groups, they help correct papers, check out library books, help in playground supervision, mix paints and in other ways relieve teachers who then can give more attention to pupils with learning difficulties.

An elaborate network of SVA - School Volunteer Aides, has been operating in MPSD all year. This is a Peninsula-wide group chaired by Mrs. DeForest Sweeney of Carmel. They have been especially helpful at Ord Terrace and Highland Schools in Seaside.

At Ord Terrace 13 volunteer aides (one from Carmel, five from Monterey, and seven from Seaside) had regularly scheduled weekly assignments, working in the school library, helping teachers during reading or mathematics work-time, in lunchroom or playground supervision, or doing clerical work so teachers could spend more time with children. A former teacher assists in remedial reading.

SVS's at Highland School have assisted in the multi-media center and elsewhere in the school.

These are only examples of the many volunteers who have given time and talent to education this school year because they realize that schools have a more complex responsibility to the community and to the individual pupil than used to be true. There is more that children have to learn. There are many children moved to the Monterey Peninsula area from other parts of the United States who have need for special tutoring and wider exposure to cultural experiences. Teachers must be more alert to know each child better, to ascertain if learning difficulties stem from remedial causes. For instance, a child may be physically or emotionally handicapped, have sight, hearing, or speech or psychological problems which need special attention. Some children need referral for free or reduced-price cafeteria meals. With volunteer help in other assignments, teachers can get to know each child better and offer better individual instruction.

MORE Little Bit

the city fathers probably bargained all right in our behalf.

But we are a little miffed that our city fathers pointed with so much pride to the fact that in the negotiations Martelli had agreed to return the city's percentage take from his franchise to 20 per cent from the 10 per cent it has been. The city fathers pointed out that it always used to be 20 per cent before times fell hard on Martelli.

And when you get right down to it, we really aren't pushed about that because it will probably mean another 10 grand or so for the city.

But we will get very, very exercised about all of this Robbing Peter to Pay Paul if our city fathers just happen to come up with the same property tax next year, and then claim they're holding the line.

Now, credibility gap-wise, we all know that just wouldn't be so, don't we?

Job Information Center

As a means of improving services to qualified job applicants, and to employers, the State Department of Human Resources Development has established a Job Information Center in the lobby of its offices at 480 Webster Street, Monterey.

Current job openings are displayed by categories on hangars attached to a Job Information Board, making them easily accessible for review by applicants, who may select one or more jobs for which they qualify and be immediately referred for interview.

As job-ready applicants will no longer be required to complete application forms prior to referral, the new system is expected to result in a faster and more efficient service to applicant and employer alike.
